JET NOVELTIES

New Importations. Fashion's Latest Fancy

And now comes a renaissance of jet. We are showing wonderfully beautiful pieces of French jet and Whitby jet-only a few examples of the latter, however. The deep, rich black, the high polish, the exquisite patterns, the effectiveness of this "Black Amber" as an adornment; last, but not least, its becomingness will insure a hearty welcome to the old-time favorite. Girls as well as matrons wear it now.

Some shapes are new, some as old as ancient Troy-so many old designs are finer than the modern. One Whitby Jet Bracelet, of serpentine form-but descriptions are futile-details suggest variety and prices; a visit will convince you of the beauty of the new jet.

to recover from him the amount of the political contributions made by the company, and he is also sued for the amount of the "confidential fund," exceeding $600,060, which, it is said, was disbursed carelessly and wastefully.

Mr. Granniss, through Lord, Day & Lord, his counsel, submitted affidavits in which he sets forth that he does not know what vouchers he is supposed to have signed illegally. He knows nothing about the "confidential fund" he swears, and as to the political contributions, he knows of only one contribution of $2,000. He sake that the company be directed to specify and snumerate what vouchers he is held responsible for.

James Money, general counsel for the Mutual, replied that Mr. Granniss must know better than any one what vouchers he did sign and that he was in no need of a bill of particulars on this subject.

Justice Bischoff reserved decision.

McGuire told the Court that the matter was a business affair which he would straighten out if allowed a week before going back to Chicago. The request was granted and McGuire was held in $1,500 bail in the meantime.

McGuire was arrested in a law office at the Wall street. He gave his business as promoter. He is said to be part owner of the National Fireproof Paint Company, at the Broadway

Markowitz also wore pearl earrings and about her neck was a heavy gold chain, serving as a necklace. The man made a grab at the chain.

Mrs. Markowitz, roused by the pull, seized the neck of the man bending over her. The match in his fingers dropped to the floor and the room was left in darkness. With his hold on the chain, the man pulled the woman from the bed. The chain cut deep into her neck, but she struggled in silence, fearing to frighten her sleeping baby. At last the child awoke and began to cry and Mrs. Markowitz called her husband, who was in another room with their three other children. He went to her assistance, followed by the eldest child, twelve-year-old Joseph.
